WHAT: These public community forums will offer you a basic turnkey curriculum and approach to train the general public. At this forum you will meet others working on this initiative and participate in building a capacity network – an ecosystem of trainers, venues for training and community partners. The objective is to build a network that will supply or direct those who are in need to free digital literacy training programs.

WHY: While the Internet has transformed our world, we all know that too many people we serve are part of the digital divide. BBRI is working hard to support community organizations that provide some type of digital literacy training. Here's an opportunity to discover how we can enhance your current programs. Join us for a forum where you'll meet your peers, learn about the Broadband RI resources available to you, and brainstorm ways we can all work together!

Broadband RI's mission is to create new opportunities by expanding broadband use and digital literacy across Rhode Island. Visit us at <http://broadband.ri.gov>
