

3D Libraries: online, inside and on the move

Speaker biographies

Diane Nester Kresh is the Director of the Arlington Public Library. She founded the Collaborative Digital Reference Service, a project to build a global, Web-based reference service among libraries and research institutions, which has now become QuestionPoint, a service co-developed by the Library of Congress and OCLC. She worked at the Library of Congress for 31 years, where she was a Director for Public Service Collections and director of the Veterans History Project, which was awarded a “Top 50 Innovations in American Government” by Harvard University’s Kennedy School of Government. She is editor of The Whole Digital Library Handbook and has published article on digital and web-based services from libraries.

Nicole Piro is a Young Adult Librarian at the Arlington Public Library. She received her M.L.S. from Catholic University in 2009. Nicole is the webmaster of Arlington Public Library's teen blog, tatalonline.blogspot.com and is part of the library's web and marketing teams. She also has a passion for young adult literature.