

References

Books

Ellington, E. & Freimiller, J. (2002). A Year of Reading: A Month-by-Month Guide to Classics and Crowd-Pleasers for You or Your Book Group. Naperville, IL: Sourcebooks, Inc.

Herald, D. T. (2006). Genreflecting: A Guide to Popular Reading Interests. W. A. Wiegand, (Ed.). Westport, CT: Libraries Unlimited.

Loevy, D. (2006). The Book Club Companion: A Comprehensive Guide to the Reading Group Experience. New York, NY: Penguin Group.

Niebuhr, G. W. (2006). Read 'Em Their Writes: A Handbook for Mystery and Crime Fiction Book Discussions. Westport, CT: Libraries Unlimited.

Pearl, N. (2003). Book Lust: Recommended Reading for Every Mood, Moment, and Reason. Seattle, WA: Sasquatch Books.

Pearl, N. (2005). More Book Lust: 1000 New Reading Recommendations for Every Mood, Moment, and Reason. Seattle, WA: Sasquatch Books.

Articles (available through Ebsco)

Dempsey, B. (2011). The Evolving Book Group. (Cover story). Library Journal, 136(14), 24-26.

Freeman, S. (2005). End of Discussion: Why I'm leaving my book group. American Scholar, 74(1), 138-142.

Hermes, V., Hile, M., & Frisbie, J. L. (2008). Reviving Literary Discussion: Book Club to Go Kits. Reference & User Services Quarterly, 48(1), 30-34.

Jacobson, A. (2010). Party On! at Your Book Discussions. American Libraries, 41(8), 28.

McArdle, M., & Trott, B. (2009). Book Group Therapy: A Survey Reveals Some Truths about Why Some Book Groups Work and Others May Need Some Time on the Couch. Reference & User Services Quarterly, 49(2), 122-125.

Trott, B. (2008). Building on a Firm Foundation: Readers' Advisory over the Next Twenty-Five Years. Reference & User Services Quarterly, 48(2), 132-135.