

MARBELIZED POLYMER CLAY PENS

Tanya Paglia, Marian Mohr Memorial Library, Johnston

You will need:

- A few blocks of polymer clay- contrasting colors work best and I use Sculpey. (from Michael's using 40% coupon)
- Cheap pens that the ink stick can be removed from. The solid white plastic ones seem to work best. Can get a twenty pack at Target for $1.59.

To make a Marble Pattern

Start by softening the clay in your hands, some colors take a lot longer to soften than others. When they are pliable roll into 12" sausages, then twist together, fold in half and roll out into a 12" sausage again.

Cut sausage in half and repeat this process about 4 times.

To make the pen

Slice the sausage into thin slices, remove the ink from the pen barrel and tile the clay pieces on as show, don't worry about gaps.

Then roll the pen on a flat surface and the gaps will disappear.

Bake according to the directions on your clay, re-insert the ink and voila! You can use more than two colors and multiple patterns on one pen barrel. Experiment!
